RE: Fire at Hunters View

Early this morning there was a fire at Hunters View. The San Francisco Fire Department arrived at the site at approximately 4:00 AM and put out the fire. Early reports have indicated that the fire was isolated to a portion of the new Block 4 building (which is the block closest to Keith Street) and that no one was injured in the fire. In addition, no occupied units or new Blocks 5 & 6 units were damaged.

Block 4 was anticipated to be completed in May 2013, and this is likely to impact the schedule for completion of that building. Block 6, which is anticipated to be complete and ready for occupancy in November/December of 2012, is most likely still on schedule, and the team is hopeful that residents will still be able to start moving in by the end of 2012.

While the fire is a set-back for the project, the team will work diligently to get back on track, so that all of the Phase I units can be ready for occupancy as soon as possible. Jack Gardner, President & CEO of the John Stewart Company, said early this morning that "this will not prevent the rebirth of Hunters View, and we will do everything possible to get the project back on schedule."

The San Francisco Fire Department will be conducting an investigation to determine the cause of the fire. The Hunters View team is fully cooperating in that investigation and more information will be distributed as soon as it becomes available.
